WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

The Korean foe, who he described as "not liquidated" but "badly crippled," can count on continued attacks until there is a definite agreement on a cease-fire, General Van Fleet said. Meanwhile, despite heavy rains and bitter enemy resistance, the United Nations drive northwest of Yangku continued to punch out new gains in the mountainous terrain. Three strong Communist commanding positions were captured.

Peiping broadcasts emphasized that Communist China wanted a "peaceful settlement" of the Korean war but charged that Communist armies must be ready to turn back a new offensive by United Nations troops because "American imperialism does not show the least good faith."

Peiping also announced that on the second anniversary of the formation of a Communist Government in China Premier Stalin had sent a message describing the Sino-Soviet alliance as a "strong safeguard of peace and security in the Far East."

The acting chief representative of the United States at the United Nations expressed hope that the Security Council would find a compromise solution to the British-Iranian oil dispute. The controversy comes before the Council today.

It is celebrated in the synagogues at worship services that are among the most serious and soul-stirring in the Jewish religion. The worshippers are told on Rosh Hashono that each of their deeds are known and judged by God. They meditate on His justice and mercy and on their own shortcomings, and they pray for the strength to follow the good and reject the evil. They pray for their fellowmen as well, and join in the hope that the New Year may see Blood collected at the Bristol visit will be processed at the Philadelphia Regional Red Cross Blood Center. Some will be held for civilian use, and the remainder will be sent directly to Korea for use on the battlefield. The donor recruitment drive is being conducted to meet a need for thousands of additional units of blood and blood plasma. As official blood collection agency for the Department of Defense, Red Cross is placing its full facilities at the disposal of the armed forces.

Mrs. John Fullam, district chairman, will be in charge of donor recruitment. Volunteers will work by telephone, and by soliciting, at the Bristol Trust and Farmers National Bank, for promises to give blood. All those who volunteer are urged to sign with sincerity, and follow through on Community Day, October 15. As General George Marshall has said, "Remember, that you can't bleed a promise."

"There is a desperate need for blood at this time," says Mrs. Ancker, "for our boys overseas, as well as for our own civilian hospitals. Donation of a pint of blood will insure the blood needs of the immediate family (husband, wife, children, father, and mother) of the donor for one year."

All prospective donors during the Bristol visit will receive a physical check-up by the Red Cross doctors and nurses to assure that they are physically fit to give blood.

FAIRLESS VILLAGE, Oct. 1 — Pennsylvania's newest postoffice, in Pennsylvania's newest community, opened this morning here in Fairless Village.

Without fanfare, the doors at G-16 Hulmeville road was opened to admit the first customer, but the postmaster and the assistant clerk were not in the least bit rushed. In fact, the first customer was the reporter who had arrived at 7:55 to learn who the first customer would be, but with no others arriving by 8:15 said reporter took advantage of being first and mailed a couple of missives.

The official designation for the post office has not been given as yet, according to the acting postmaster, Mrs. Catharine E. Ottolini. However, any mail for which first day cancellation is requested will be withheld until the official designation is given, and these pieces will then carry the first day cancellation for "Fairless Post Office" or whatever such happens to be.

The first letter mailed at the post office by the first customer this morning will carry the acting postmaster's signature as well as the requested information: "First customer on Fairless(?) Post Office Opening Day."

Some additional letters were picked up by Mrs. Ottolini this morning at the telephone switchboard office on Bedford road where local residents have been in the habit of leaving mail for the rural carrier from a nearby postoffice. These will be dispatched from the new post office today, but will bear a Trenton, N. J., postmark. This is with the exception of those where specific requests were made for first day cancellations, and in such instances the pieces will be withheld until the official post office name is assigned and such cancellation can be made. This may be today or tomorrow, states Mrs. Ottolini.

By 8:05 this morning a sign appeared beside the front door of the fourth class office, reading "U. S. Post Office."

A hasty glance over the states to which first day cancellations are to be dispatched showed the following: Nebraska, Vermont, Ohio, Maryland, Florida, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Maine, California, Connecticut, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, New York and the District of Columbia. There may be a few others, as some envelopes received by the acting postmaster contained a number of envelopes to be sent out on opening day.

In addition to Mrs. Ottolini there is an assistant clerk on duty, namely Mrs. Clifford Watson.

Mail arrives at the local post office from Trenton, N. J., post office four times daily, 6:25 a. m., 10:25 a. m., 1:40 p. m., and 6:00 p. m.; with exception of Saturdays

AS ARMEN SEE IT

If the Army and the Navy are thinking now in terms of tactical atomic weapons, the Air Force still looks on the destructive power of nuclear fission as a strategic instrument. To the airman the most effective thing to do with this tremendous explosive force is to turn it, by means of the airplane, against a hostile nation's centers of production—and thus make it impossible for the enemy to keep its armed forces in the field.

This conclusion is inherent in the address just made at Boston by Gen. Nathan F. Twining, Air Force vice chief of staff. He said that greatly increased atomic bomb production foreshadows "the most revolutionary period in the entire history of warfare." And he explained that U. S. output of atomic weapons is now reaching a point where this nation might be able to overcome any possible enemy with an aerial atomic blitz alone.

General Twining also said that European atomic weapons can also help save allies from capture by enemy ground forces. He was discussing the point made by some observers that a Russian drive to the sea probably would succeed before it would be possible for atomic bombs to cripple the Soviet's war-making potential. Perhaps he had some of the new tactical nuclear weapons in mind. But his emphasis is reflected in this sentence: "An air campaign can now be as destructive as the most bitterly fought surface invasion and in a much shorter period of time."

It is natural that General Twining should reflect the conviction of his service that the airplane armed with the atomic bomb can be decisive if another war should come. Nevertheless, the development of tactical nuclear weapons may be the best justification for enlarging the atomic program. No war has yet been won by an air offensive alone.

FOR GIRLS IT'S BASIC

There may come a day when the female graduate of a standard college or university can compete evenly with the male when both approach a firm with, say, a B. S. in business administration. The man may have to start at the bottom of the ladder toward an executive post—but he starts. The girl, likely as not, gets turned away because they asked her if she could type and take shorthand, and she said she couldn't.

We're not saying typing and shorthand are the sort of cultural or technical courses a college is designed to teach. But for a girl to try to enter the business world ignorant of basic media of written communication is almost like a lad joining the Navy without being able to swim. The Navy remedies that deficiency right away. Though the office skills are not matters of life or death, they are surely among the primary tools a young woman needs in getting started.

ECHOES OF THE PAST

Review of the news as it appeared in the Bucks County Gazette issue dated at Bristol May 21, 1903. The Gazette, a weekly newspaper published in Bristol, was discontinued following its merger with the Courier.

A large sturgeon that measured five feet in length was caught at the Badger fishery on Monday. The fish was shipped by boat to Philadelphia. A few years ago sturgeon were plentiful in the river at Bristol and the drifters caught many of them, but now they are great strangers in these waters.

Captain Joseph Quicksall has resigned his position as commander of the steamer Republic after a continuous service in that capacity for more than a dozen years, and in all the trips to Cape May during that time has carried hundreds of thousands of passengers without an accident. The Republic has been renamed the Cape May, in honor of that seaside resort, and will resume her daily trips to the sea about the middle of next month. Captain Quicksall has leased the coal yard of Mrs. Stroble, at the foot of Bath street, which will be fitted up in good shape for the handling of coal in a few days. This yard has extra railroad facilities inasmuch as the coal can be dumped from the cars direct into the bins.

guilty to open lewdness in criminal court more than a decade ago.

"A police officer today has to spend half his time to keep out of trouble when he gets into court," said an important county law enforcement official.

Sensing a change which is subtly seeping into the county with reference to the conviction of drunken drivers, one police chief said: "You might think the officer, or the examining physician, was on trial instead of the defendant."

A borough police chief said that a justice of the peace or assessor could certainly aid in screening men and women for jury service so that no one with a "bad" reputation would ever have a chance to serve on the jury.

"What is the use of making arrests if you have bartenders and drunken drivers on the jury?" asked one borough police chief.

Constable Clarence K. Wenhold, of Quakertown, presided and about 50 policemen attended. Chief of Police Clarence E. Heppie, of Southampton, was elected treasurer. Chief of Police Paul J. Brennan, of Warminster twp., resigned. Burgess George A. Scholes, of Quakertown, in the absence of former Treasurer Brennan, reported $658.26 in the treasury.

Constable I. D. Derstine, Hilltown twp., reported $447 made on the clambake held at the Old Mill, near Sellersville.

The need for a traffic school was presented by Chief William D. Hammerschmidt, of Sellersville. Chief Robert Waterson, Lower Makefield, reported that police training schools may be held on three subjects, basic, advanced and technical training.

Two new officers, Patrolman Carson Klinger, of Yardley, and Patrolman Joseph J. Camilla, of Newtown, were elected.

President Wenhold reported that 20,000 primers have been purchased. The next meeting will be held in Wycombe at the Linkshoeken Fire Company's station on Oct. 25.

Trenton Man Is Sentenced by Judge

Railroad Company, and Joseph H. Hogan, another PRR policeman, who was the driver, were "cruising" around in Morrisville about 10:30 at night, when they saw two men drag Palaschak off the sidewalk into some bushes and hedges along the pavement.

Pouncing on the two men, the Penna. Railroad detectives saw the defendant, Baytop, attempting to pull Palaschak's hand off his right pants pocket where he had his wallet in it.

The other defendant, Swinton, was holding the man down, flat on his back. The two defendants had managed to steal the victim's pocket-knife, but did not have his money by the time they were caught and arrested.

The victim, Palaschak, testified he had been drinking and was walking home when something happened. An inter-state bridge police officer, John McDonald, who saw Palaschak "weaving" along the street shortly before he was "mugged," advised him to go home.

"I only remember being grabbed and pulled off the sidewalk, but I didn't feel like starting a fight," said the victim.

Learning that the defendant had no record, Judge Little said: "I would feel better if you had been perfectly frank. I am not sending you to the penitentiary with the hope that you will never again be before a judge for a criminal offense."

"WASHINGTON REPORT"

By FULTON LEWIS, JR.
(Copyright, 1951
King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

Washington, Oct. 1.

Wee Willie Benton, a Connecticut Democrat in the United States Senate, seems to have taken on more than he can handle in trying to oust Wisconsin's Joseph R. McCarthy from that same Senate.

Wee Willie wants to get Senator McCarthy out now because, he says, there are "high and urgent moral issues involved" that can't wait to be decided by the voters of Wisconsin next year.

Nobody around the Capitol seems to think that Wee Willie will get anywhere with his "oust - McCarthy" campaign, but he's going ahead with it anyway.

In the light of that crack about "high and urgent moral issues," I've been looking back a bit on Wee Willie's own record. Oddly enough, I find nothing whatsoever to indicate any feeling of high urgency on his part when it came to the matter of cleaning Communies and Pinkos out of the State Department in the early post-war days when he was Assistant Secretary of State in charge of the Voice of America and other informational programs.

Back in 1948, Representative John Taber of New York, then the Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee, made a little speech on the House floor involving Mr. Benton. In it he listed a few of the State Department employees who were working under Mr. Benton, and in whom Mr. Benton apparently placed full confidence and reliance. Here are some of his samples:

"An employee who renounced his American citizenship, embraced Communism, married a Russian operatic baritone and stayed on Benton's payroll for 13 more months.

"A translator and script writer, clearly a Communist according to State Department files. She was hired by the Government shortly after coming to the U. S. in 1938. In 1948 she is still on the State Department payroll."

"Another case who is presently employed in the Cultural Relations Division of the State Department was a member of various Communist controlled organizations, a delegate to Russia in 1927, a favorite of the Daily Worker. He is still employed."

Benton's assistants at the time were Haldore Hanson, William T. Stone and Esther Caulkin Brunauer. When McCarthy mentioned these three the hue and cry was deafening. Now, however, especially in the case of Mrs. Brunauer, who was suspended from the government payroll along with her husband, it will be interesting to see who steps up to hold Benton's hand when McCarthy reminds him of the trio.

Mrs. Brunauer put up a spirited defense when tagged by McCarthy. She got a pat on the back from ex-Senator Millard Tydings, Eleanor Roosevelt and dozens of others who take dry runs on left wingers by walking up and asking them if they are Reds. Usually they get the answer "no," and they believe it because they look the suspect right smack in the eye when asking. The State Department was finally forced, in this case, to look at some disturbing facts and suspend the woman.

There are a couple of other milestones, too, in Benton's career as Assistant Secretary of State. For instance, it was under his aegis that the Voice of America did a series of broadcasts lauding Henry Agard Wallace as a great statesman and political figure.

Then there was the time when he authorized the sending of an art collection around the world to help war-torn nations which were working to rebuild their lives and economies. One canvas peddled as typical American art displayed a rump-spraddled female in a circus. Maybe Benton sent that one for laughs. He's credited with a giggly sense of humor.

Anyway, I just thought you might like to know a little bit about this high-minded individual whose sense of "high and urgent moral issues" has become so aroused by Senator Joe McCarthy. Do you think it might be because some of McCarthy's charges have touched home, as far as Benton and his pals are concerned? I do.

HOW TO STAY HEALTHY THIS WINTER

Winter — with its colds, chills, flu, its dearth of sunshine and healthful exercise — will soon be here again for those Americans who live north of the Mason-Dixon line and east of California. And with winter comes the problem of how to stay healthy with very little help from the elements.

The article that follows is the first of five giving valuable advice on what the average person can do during the winter months to guard the health of himself and his family. The articles, written by the editors of Cosmopolitan Magazine, are distributed by International News Service with special permission.

"How to Stay Healthy This Winter"

ARTICLE ONE
Condensed from Cosmopolitan Magazine

There is no need, when winter drives you indoors and out of the sun, to lose that wonderfully alive feeling of summertime, or to let your summer health fade.

With proper care of yourself and your family, you can keep as fit as you please all winter long. It's just a matter of knowing what to do, and doing it.

For instance, there is the matter of rest. Sleep is vital to your healthy winter. Legend hath it that you need eight hours' sleep a night. Regard this merely as an average figure. You may need more, or you may be one of the lucky ones who are refreshed and rarin' to go after only six or seven hours. Your body will tell you if you are getting enough sleep.

Healthful sleeping requires a quiet, dark, well-ventilated room; a hard mattress that gives you thirty-six to thirty-nine inches of sleeping space; blankets light in weight, heavy in warmth, not tucked in so tightly that you're strait-jacketed; bedroom windows open, at both top and bottom if you don't have cross-ventilation.

The United States children's bureau says children's sleep requirements are as follows: birth to six months, 20-22 hours; six months to a year, 16-18 hours; one to two years, 14-16 hours; two to five years, 13-15 hours; five to eight years, 12 hours; eight to eleven years, 11 hours; eleven to thirteen years, 10-12 hours; thirteen to fifteen years, 11-13 hours.

Helpful hints for suffering insomniacs: cultivate the art of relaxation all day long. Muscular tension is one of the main causes of sleeplessness, and freedom from tension can be consciously learned. Above all, in the hour before bedtime refuse to worry or fight or get angry or try to solve your problems. Most people sleep best when their stomachs are practically empty. However, a light snack or a glass of warm milk before bedtime may help you fall asleep. Try relaxing for a half hour or so in a "neutral bath"—water at body temperature. Afterward, pat the body dry with a towel. Do not rub. Then climb between the sheets and consciously relax every part of your body.

Cleanliness is important, too. That means scalp, hair, face, teeth, mouth, hands, fingernails, and the rest of your body. Scrub your hands, before eating. Every night before retiring, brush hair and scalp vigorously. Always make sure that everything coming in contact with your scalp is clean: comb, brush, bobby pins, and fingernails.

Oily hair should be shampooed once a week; dry, brittle hair, once every two weeks. A pure oliveoil shampoo is good. Dry your head immediately afterward to prevent chilling. An electric hair-dryer is helpful for avoiding that winter cold.

Save face with common-sense measures. If you have an oily skin, wash your face with a pure soap once a day; if your skin is unusually dry, cut down on the number of soapsings, use a very mild soap, and oil your skin occasionally before washing.

As for that daily bath or shower, it's fine for most people most of the year, but not so good for all people during wintertime. The natural oil of the skin is washed away in the bath, and in the winter some skins tend to become dry and itchy. If this holds true for you, cut down your baths to four a week.

When the Liberty Bell cracked in 1835 it was tolling for the death of John Marshall.

At the "Y"

Paragraphs of interest to those interested in the Bristol Young Men's Christian Association.

The Bristol Young Men's Christian Association will begin its 1951-52 fall and winter program of activities this evening in newly-cleaned and renovated quarters at 906 Mansion street.

A Young Adult Council will hold an organization meeting in the "Y" Club Room, Wednesday evening at 7:30 p. m. The charter members include Roy Butterworth, Allen Hibbs, Vito Delia, Bud Carter, Cholly Mercer, Vito Marsegia, John Dowd, Harding Johnson, Walter Keys, George Molden, Jr., Philip Felicione and Clarence Smith. This group of young men will be charged with the responsibility of guiding and formulating the year-round "Y" program, the supervision and recruiting of club leaders and referees, and the general maintenance of the building. O. E. Norbeck, the new executive secretary, says: "The formation of the Bristol YMCA Young Adult Council is an important step in strengthening the work of the local 'Y'. The Council will be challenged to create and maintain a program to meet the daily increasing recreational and character-building needs of this community and the township. The needs are great and I am completely confident that the Council will attack its responsibilities with enthusiasm, vigor and determination."

Frank J. Fuoco directs the physical education department of the local "Y". He is organizing three basketball leagues. The Midget League will be for boys 12 to 14 years of age. The Junior League will be composed of boys aged 14 to 17. The Adult League will include the 18 and up level. Local and Township team managers can secure complete information by contacting Mr. Fuoco at the YMCA this week, between six and ten p. m. The deadline for team registration will be Friday evening. Because of an increasing heavy demand for use of the gym floor, a strict schedule will be adhered to in order to accommodate a maximum request for space and time.

The entire building facilities, including the gym, will be reserved every Friday evening for club groups only and special events. Local hobby or special interest groups desiring to organize or hold meetings in the "Y" club rooms Friday nights may secure information by phoning Secretary Norbeck, Bristol 3863.

Boys and girls interested in joining the "Y" Model Club (all types of models) and the Junior "Y" Photography Club, are invited to attend the fall meeting in the "Y" club room, Friday evening, October 12, at seven p. m.

the world enjoying a new birth of righteousness under God.

Rabbi Aron Moskovits gave the following message to his people:

"May the Lord be with us even as He was with our Fathers—He shall not forsake us." (I Kings, VIII, 57).

"With these words uttered by the wisest of all men at the dedication of the Temple in Jerusalem, I greet you at this solemn hour as we are about to usher in the New Year of 5712. May the Lord, indeed be with us even as He was with our ancestors."

"No doubt, a great many of us look back upon the past year with grief because providence saw fit to inflict us. Nevertheless, we have ample reason to be grateful for the many blessings we have enjoyed. Man, unfortunately, does not realize that what seems to be a disappointment, in his view—in the immediate present—may turn out to be a veritable blessing in the light of retrospect. BRISTOL HIGH WINS FIRST GAME OF SEASON, DEFEATING PENNSBURY, 18-0

MORRISVILLE, Oct. 1.—Bristol High did all its scoring at the close of the first half and late in the third period as it won its first game of the season here Saturday night. The Warriors defeated Pennsbury High, 18-0, to win a Lower Bucks County Conference game and also hand the Falcons its first defeat in three starts.

Long runs featured the Bristol scoring. The first was made by Andy Accardi, who scampered 63 yards on an end run behind wonderful blocking. The run was the first play after Don Doheny had booted to the Warriors' 37-yard line.

Al Holoiten's 24-yard run to the 5-yard line set up the second TD. After Holoiten put the ball on the 5, it took but two line plays by Accardi and Joe Muth to register the touchdown. Muth doing the scoring.

Muth made himself a committee of one to account for the third and final touchdown. Joe intercepted a pass by Jack Sands on his 30-yard line and ran like a frightened rabbit for 70 yards and a touchdown. Muth attempted the three tries for extra points without success.

Both teams had five first downs and both put up a strong defense. Pennsbury received a bad break early in the second quarter when a holding penalty had a touchdown annulled. The Falcons had the ball on the Bristol 27 when Sands heaved a long pass to Hal Powell in the end zone. Powell had the ball and dropped it. Sands again heaved a pass on the second down. This time, the pass went straight into the arms of Hal Briggs who stepped over the goal line for a score but in the meantime an official had dropped the handkerchief, indicating a penalty.

Bristol made a threat early in the initial period. Gleason intercepted a pass to give the Warriors the ball on the Pennsbury 39. Two plays failed to net much yardage so Accardi passed to Gillies for a first on Pennsbury's 28. Again the Pennsbury line held. On a jump pass by Gene Dugan, Jim Bizon intercepted and ran to his 36. Don Doheny got off a nice kick which went to Holoiten on the 26, it being run back to the 40. Accardi and Muth gained 7 yards. On third down, Holoiten got off for a first down, Bensalem was charged with roughing the kicker and the penalty put the ball on the 16-yard line with Council Rock still in possession. Perkins and Morris carried the ball on two reverses to make the score with Morris getting the touchdown. A pass, Morris to Herman Teschner, accounted for the extra point, making the count, 14-0.

After the kickoff which Bensalem received, Mikelaites fumbled and Herman Teschner recovered for Council Rock. But shortly after, Council Rock fumbled with Habbitt recovering for Bensalem on his 17. Bob Whitfield tossed a long pass to Parker who caught it at mid-field and ran to the Council Rock 31 before he was tackled from behind by Bob Teschner. But on the next play, Herman Teschner intercepted a pass on his 15 as the quarter ended.

Council Rock failed to gain so Herman Teschner kicked to the 50, it being returned to the Indians' 44. Bensalem then began to click on its passes. Whitfield completed a pass to Joe Mikelaites for a first down on C. R. 38. However, four more passes were either knocked down or missed by the Bensalem receivers. Council Rock tried three plays and missed a first down by inches. On the fourth try, it again missed by inches, Bensalem taking over on C. R. 47. Whitfield's pass missed Walker's outstretched hands. Another aerial, Whitfield to Scioi was completed on Council Rock's 30. After two passes failed, Whitfield hit Scioi with a 30-yard aerial for a TD. The extra point was made on a pass, Carl Arnold to Whitfield.

With the score 14-7, Council Rock scored an insurance touchdown with less than a minute remaining to be played. Two reverses after the kickoff gave Herman Teschner a first on the Council Rock 11. Morris and Bob Teschner alternating in hauling the ball to the 48 from where Perkins took the ball on a reverse and ran 48 yards for the final touchdown. The attempted extra point, a pass, was unsuccessful.

It was the second straight win for Coach Dominick Sagolla's team and its first Lower Bucks County League triumph of the 1951 season.

COUNCIL ROCK SCORES VICTORY OVER BENSALEM

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Oct. 1.—Council Rock led Bensalem Township a menu of reverses, double reverses, and triple reverses as it scored a surprise 20-7 win over the 1950 Lower Bucks County League champions Saturday afternoon.

The Council Rock offense was in high gear as it crossed the Bensalem goal line three times and added two extra points. Most of the Council Rock gaining was on its reverses. It registered a total of 12 first downs to the Owls' six.

The Bensalem offense was stopped cold by the Council Rock line. Most of the Bensalem's yardage was picked up on aerial tosses by Bob Whitfield. It was Bob's toss to Charlie Scioi that accounted for the lone Bensalem score and it was his pass to George Walker that made the Owls' lone threat in the first half.

Council Rock's scores were made by Bob Teschner from the one-yard line after Russ Morris had set up the score with a sensational end run of 38 yards. Morris accounted for the second touchdown on a reverse of eight yards after a penalty had put the ball in scoring position. The other score was a fine 48-yard run by Charlie Perkins on a double reverse.

Bensalem made a scoring threat early in the first quarter but were stopped near the goal line. Council Rock taking over on a fumble. Dick Gloyd helped the Owls by recovering a fumble on the Indians' 30-yard line. Whitfield gained a little ground on two plays but then whipped a pass to George Walker who went out of bounds on the 10-yard line. On a pitchout, Al Parker carried the ball 6 yards to the four. Whitfield was stopped by Hauler without a gain. Parker then got by the line of scrimmage but fumbled on the 2 with Luff recovering for Council Rock.

Herman Teschner booted out of danger temporarily, the ball rolling to the 44. Two plays were unsuccessful so Whitfield again hit the ozone. The ball went over the heads of two secondary defense players of Council Rock into the waiting arms of Russ Struble for a touchdown. But the play was recalled as a penalty was assessed against Bensalem. Another play and Whitfield kicked out on the Council Rock 32.

Here the Council Rock powerhouse went into action. Morris gained nine yards on a triple reverse and then hit the line for a first down. On another reverse Perkins made nine yards. An end run by Herm Teschner was good for a first down on Bensalem's 49. Morris on a reverse from Teschner followed good interference to break loose on a jaunt around left end, the run being good for 38 yards, with Morris being forced out on the two. Herm Teschner fumbled but recovered. Bob Teschner hit the line to score the touchdown. The extra point was made on an end run by Charlie Perkins, making the score 7-0.

Shortly after the kickoff, Bensalem made two first downs to carry the ball to Council Rock's 32. But the attack died when Herman Teschner intercepted a pass on his 21. After an exchange of punts, Council Rock suffered a 15-yard penalty to place the ball on its 3-yard line but it ran the ball and made a first on the 14. Two more reverses saw the ball hiked to the Bensalem 42 where the attack died, forcing a kick. However, the Bensalem offense was stymied and could not bulge the Council Rock line as the half ended, 7-0.

Bensalem was credited with its fourth first down early in the third quarter when Bob Whitfield lugged the ball to his 48 after an 8-yard gain by Parker. Whitfield then booted out on the C. R. 48. Again the Council Rocks started to serve a dish of reverses. Two plays and a 5-yard penalty put the ball on Bensalem's 41. On a reverse, Morris carried the pigskin to the 31. Bensalem held the C. R. team to eight yards in three downs but on fourth
